

I want the government to leave the no-call list law alone. It was set up because of the complaints of the citizens, and it has made our lives easier. We appreciate the law giving us the freedom to choose not to be called. What would be the point of asking the citizens what they want and then going along with the businesses anyway and letting them invade our privacy? Thank you.